WEST PLAYS AT POLITICS

CRUSADES ALL AGAINST REPUBLICAN OFFICIALS.

BOOSTS DEMOCRAT CANDIDATES

Charge Made That Famous Clean-ups of Oregon Executive Are All Made to Benefit the Democratic Party Seems Well Founded.

As days go on the charge that the famous clean-ups made by Governor West throughout the state of Oregon have been made for political purposes seems to be getting pretty well proven. It is markedly noticeable that in nearly if not every instance the state interference has been in places where the officials were republican. It is known that he has refused to interfere in some towns where the need was even greater than in places where he has interfered, and that in the latter places the officials were democratic.

Not only that, but West, who is governor by the grace of republican votes, and who has throughout his term of office pretended to stand on a plane above party politics, has during this campaign written repeated letters endorsing democratic candidates for office and invariably under some specious claim of their merit in some direction entirely non-partisan. It is the old, old democratic scheme of trying to deceive members of other parties into thinking that the democratic candidate was but a poor democrat at best and should have their support.

The letters sent Attorney Kelly of Medford and Colonel Tou Valle, reporting to be non-partisan praise from a state executive, are as simply democratic campaign dope as if sent out from democratic headquarters. Governor West's action in these matters has gone far to shake the belief in his sincerity in his reform attitude, and his praise of democratic candidates will be taken at much less than face value by all thinking people.

The Kite's Tail.

Oregon City Courier, October 18, 1912: There has been some criticism of the Courier because it is supporting a progressive candidate for congress—and the Courier always likes to explain.

Go out on the street and ask the first dozen men you meet who the democratic nominee is, and not one of them can tell you. They don't know—not ten in one hundred DO know.

When the democrat was nominated it wasn't intended anyone SHOULD know.

He was NOT nominated to be elected. He had no hopes to be—in fact, did not even file his acceptance until 11:30—when John W. Campbell was nominated by the progressives at Roseburg.

The democratic nomination was simply an aid society to Congressman Hawley's standpat machine, and the nominee was simply a tail to Hawley's kite.

And the Courier isn't very strong on kite tails.

The nomination put up to the democratic papers of this district a bucketful of whitewash and a brush and told them to use it.

It was a situation forced on them, in which they could have no sympathy and mighty little interest.

You know Mr. Hawley's record. You know how he got into Joe Cannon's Sunday school class in less than fifteen minutes after he got down to Washington, and how he forgot Oregon under the smile of the politicians and became a big business preacher. His record published last week speaks for him—and for itself.

And now when the republicans nominate J. W. Campbell—a man who stands for what we all stand for—is it the duty of this sheet to hang onto Hawley's kite tail?

Well, not the way the roads are! We are not that quality of a politician—not quite "regular" enough yet.

The Courier editor wrote the democratic nominee July 27, asking if there was any truth in the rumor that he had not qualified for the nomination; assuring him that if he was in the race to win the Courier would work hard for him, but if he was not going to make a canvas there was no use.

This paper never got the courtesy of a reply from Mr. Smith.

Before the Roseburg convention nominated Mr. Campbell, this office phoned to the secretary of state and was informed the democratic nominee had NOT filed his acceptance at that time. Four months after the primaries, and he hadn't made up his

Mr. Dooley on the Political Situation.

"I see be the paypers that Mr. Tou Valley is publishing his private correspondence in Medford Mail Tribune. Now to me minw that is a rather oncertain way to elict himself county jedge. How does he know the Hon. George Chamberlain or Ossie West would like to have their private letters exposed to the profane view of the common public? Be the shades of Tommy Jefferson, I take it they will be mighty mad when they discover this after the election is over. For if it were not for the republicans, where could they get votes enough to elict themselves senators and governors? There's not enough democrats in Oregon to elict one side of ither of them."

"I thought, said Mr. Hennessey, 'that George Putnam was keeping his lily white hands off the eliction.' 'Shure he is, but it is this way, you know. George runs an independent paper, and when he prepares letters for his friend Tou Valley's benefit and sends them out for signatures he naturally feels under obligations to publish them in a disinterested way, you know, when he gets one back properly signed over the telephone."

"How about the Hildreth letter from Butte Falls?" said Mr. Hennessey.

"You see, it's this way: It appears from the county records that one Dunn was county judge once on a time, and this same Hildreth conceived the idea of having himself appointed supervisor of one certain road district and occupied the attention of the court the better part of a day explaining to the judge his great qualifications for the office of road supervisor, but it so happened that the judge did not agree with him as to his ability, and knowing he was always looking for a scrap with one John Barleycorn and often being accommodated in that line, the judge turned down his application, which of cource placed the judge in the 'in-grate' class, whatever that may be."

"Did you read the Colonel Mimms epistle in the Tribune?" said Mr. Hennessey.

"Sure, I did. The colonel's kind heart is torn and bleed'ng in behalf of Mr. Putnam's friend Tou Valle. Wasn't it awful the way that small coterie of politicians, slumbering in the southern suburbs of Medford, handed a lemon to poor Con. Leever? Divil the thing did 'Con.' know about it, either. And he and his friends and neighbors were just supporting Dunn with all their might until Mr. Putnam, 'tis said, framed up the carcass of a letter for the colonel's signature and artistic embellishment. Now it's all off and there will be an awful surprise after the election smoke clears away."

"Well, Mr. Dooley, don't you think Mr. Putnam is more or less disinterestedly concerned about the election of his friend Tou Valle?" said Mr. Hennessey.

"Oh, no, he's not interested at all; he's just sitting back and looking on. Well, well, politics do sure make strange bedfellows, just before election. But there'll be a mighty commotion in certain rooming houses after election."

mind whether he would accept or not!

And now with a voice that sounds as if it needs machine oil on it, once in a while a democrat will moan, "The Courier isn't standing by."

If you democrats can pull any pathos out of this situation—go to it.

The Courier is out for a man for congress who will stand by the voters of Oregon. He's a republican—a Bull Moose, if you will—but he towers a mile over the big business handy man we are sending down to Washington.

It's time to slip the halter, pull off the tag and vote for men who ring true.

Give Hawley the harpoon and elect John W. Campbell. Send a man to Washington who will represent Oregon.

GEO. W. DUNN
